REVIEWED BY: JOHN DABELL

When asked to list their top concerns regarding their child's safety, parents are most concerned about bullying, followed closely by accidents on the road. Britain actually has one of the best road safety records in the world. However, road traffic accidents are one of the main causes of death and injury to children of school age. In 2017, there were over 15,000 child casualties aged 15 or under.

Teaching road safety is incredibly important as all children need to be road aware. Astonishingly, traffic education isn't included in the national curriculum, so it's down to schools to teach it, normally within PSHE and citizenship. 5alive-Roadwise is an inclusive and well-planned programme for easy implementation across your school.

The programme contains a project booklet for each year group, each containing four dynamic and purposeful workshops covering awareness and knowledge of traffic, safe strategies for crossing the road, visibility, and an understanding of the meaning of signs and symbols.

The planning, notes and photocopiables that accompany the workshops are impeccable and richly loaded with ideas, questions, scenarios and things to do. These are supported by author video guidance for staff and a number of informative Powerpoints for class use.

Also included is a 72-page music activity book and a road crossing song CD. There are also bookmarks for every child featuring the 5alive road safety steps.

The most effective road safety programmes are ones that encourage child-centred activities which promote play, social interaction, self-awareness, personal reflection and exploration of the world. These actively engage pupils, satisfy their natural curiosity and encourage informed decision making. This is what 5alive-Roadwise achieves. It gives children opportunities to develop the knowledge, skills and attitudes to help them make informed and safe decisions in traffic and makes an important contribution to their health and wellbeing.

5alive-Roadwise will help develop pupils' understanding of the dangers of traffic so that they develop safer strategies and become more roadwise. It would be brilliant for incorporating into pupil road safety committees and supporting junior road safety officers and will help you actively engage children in developing skills that focus on identifying and responding safely to risk situations.

We all need to be passionate about supporting children to be wiser and safer on the roads and 5alive-Roadwise is a vital resource, offering sound counsel and inspiration.
